INVESTIGATION ABOUT OVER

HARRIET LANE JOHNSTON SAID TO BE DYING.

(Special to The Herald.) Washington, June 20 .- A few days ago the suggestion appeared in print that Senator Lodge of Massachusetts might possibly become chairman of the national Republican committee. Where the suggestion originated is mystery, but is unimportant. It is the null season in Washington. It probably surprised the graceful and accomplished senator from Massachusetts more than it did anyone else, for no thought has been farther from his mind. To accept such a position would not imply his abandonment of politics habit of thought and life is out of GREAT BRITAIN DOES personal to himself, but his whole harmony with the work which falls to the hand of a national chairman The idea of Senator Lodge succeeding Senator Hanna as the executive head of the Republican party organization can be dismissed as unworthy of scre-

Hanna Can Hold On.

Hanna Can Hold On.

There is no doubt as to who will be chairman of the national Republican committee. The chances are against Senator Hanna remaining in that position. In the first place, Senator Hanna is getting along in years, and his physical condition will not allow of a very strenuous life. In the second place it goes without saying that he would not devote his energies to the election of Theodore Roosevelt with the same ardor, enthusiasm and personal interest which he gave to the campaign of his intimate friend and political ally, William McKinley. One factor in the situation which might keep Hanna at the helm would be his desire to retain control of the party machine. This is an alluring ambition for any man and appeals with even greater force to Senator Hanna, who has in the past wielded a *scepter which can only be likened to the autocratic power of a dictator.

Senator Hanna can remain in his present position as chairman of the national committee throughout the campaign of 1904 if he will agree to do so. He will undoubtedly be asked to continue his services by no less a person than President Roosevelt. If, however, Mr. Hanna decides to withdraw the president's first choice from a personal point of view will undoubtedly fall upon ex-Governor Murray Crane of Massachusetts. There is some doubt whether Governor Crane would accept the burden of responsibility, but it is believed that if he was requested to do so, with the impetuous earnestness the president shows in securing what he wants, Governor Crane would be unable to withstand him. He would have accepted the position of secretary of the treasury had not his connection with the Crane Paper company of Massachusetts made it seem unadvisable. But there is little doubt, if a vacancy should occur in the cabinet in connection with a department not so deeply concerned in the purchase of paper, Governor Crane would be offered the position and would probably accept it.

Limit Reached.

In the opinion of those who have been watching the postomice investiga-tion from the beginning, the stirring up of the department proper has prob-ably reached its limit. Those who were concerned in making a good showing as to results are well satisfied with the as to results are wen satisfied what resignations, suspensions and prosecutions which have already taken place. It is possible that a few minor cierks and officials will yet be discharged, owing to suspicions having been cast upon them in the course of the investiga-tion of more important employes, but there is certainly an air of relaxation

Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston is dying. Since the administration of President Buchanan, when, as his niece, she reigned at the White House, she has been a power in Washington. The best part of her life has been spent in the capitals of the world. She came to Washington first as child of seven, attending the famous Visitation convent in old Georgetown, and spending her Washington first as called of Seven, attending the famous Visitation convent in old Georgetown, and spending her Sundays and holidays with her uncle, who was then secretary of state. In 1852 she accompanied him to England and presided over the American legation, being received at court as his daughter. She became a warm friend of Queen Victoria, and the intimacy between them was as close as could exist between the queen of one nation and a private citizen of another. One of the few personal invitations which King Edward sent out for his coronation came to Mrs. Johnston. The king had not forgotten the impression she made upon him when he visited President Buchāhan during his trip to this country. At the court of Russia Mrs. Johnston again played the part of hostess of the American embassy, and later visited the capitals of Austria and Germany. One of the happiest of the strip to this country. Roosevelt's Godchild.

The fame of the New Mexico baby for whom President Roosevelt stood sponsor has reached to the capital. Senor Theodore Roosevelt Armijo seems to have celebrated his christening to the extent of his energy and the power of his lungs. With a rough rider for his father and another rough rider, who has made quite a noise in the world himself, for godfather, it could hardly be expected that the infant would behave in a very moderate manner. There are several thousand small Teddy Roosevelts, but only one presidential godson. Sergeant Armijo, the boy's father, acted as interpreter for Colonel Roosevelt on the eve of Las Guasimas, when the latter was trying to buy some oats for his horse from a native. The following day the sergeant was wounded. The then colonel gave orders for his special care and has ever since kept an eye on him. It is to be hoped the boy will absorb some of the famous "Teddie luck."

A very good story has recently been going the rounds. Just before the president started on his western trip he was visited by a party from Charleston, S. C. Turning to one of the ladies, he asked: "Well, is everything going along just the same down in Charleston as when I was there?" "Oh, no, Mr. President," she answered. SIGNOR PRINETTI MAKES OFFI-CIAL STATEMENT.

President Loubet's projected visit to tiff's ability to make quick recupera-Rome, owing to the delicacy of the questions involved. When shown the Vienna reports to the effect that the visit had been given up because the pope would not receive the president, it was stated that it had never been officially determined that the president should visit Pome the carly reports be should visit Rome, the early reports being largely a deduction that King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Paris would naturally be followed by M. NOT UPHOLD MURDER

Belgrade, June 20.—Great Britain has practically cut off diplomatic relations with Servia. The British minister, Sir C. F. Bonham, will leave here Monday for England. The consul of Great Britain, W. G. Thesiger, will take charge of British interests.

reached and no announcement made as to the time or programme. Signor Prinetti add an hour's talk with Foreign Minister Delcasse yesterday. He said afterwards that if King Victor Emmanuel came to Paris, Italy would expect M. Loubet to go to Rome.

He added that Italy did not want a repetition of the difficulties which arose from the fact that Emperor Francis Joseph did not return the late King Humbert's visit to Vienna. Signor Prinetti added:

Return Visit Expected.

"It is to be distinctly understood"

The latter part of this statement apparently dismisses the reports that M. Loubet would avoid vatican complications by visiting King Victor Emmanuel at a point outside of Rome.

Signor Prinetti's reference to the emperor of Austria not returning the visit to King Humbert has been fully aired by the officials here during the informal discussion of the proposed visit of M. Loubet to Rome, as was the similar precedent of the queen of Portugal not visiting Rome because of the vatican complications and it was generally becoming visiting Rome because of the vatican complications, and it was generally believed that these precedents did not apply to France, as Austria and Portugal have hereditary sovereigns who maintain the theory of the divine right of kings, the pope being considered the temporal instrument of this divine right, whereas M. Loubet is a democratic ruler, chosen by a people who do not hold to the theory of the divine right of rulers.

Under Discussion.

Under Discussion.

Although this has been seriously and officially discussed it has apparently not brought about a solution of the difficulties. The official programme of King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Paris, given out today, makes no mention of a return visit. The king will stay herefrom July 16 to July 18 and will be entertained with elaborate fetes, a military review, state banquets and a gala performance at the opera. He will occupy sumptuous apartments. The king will be accompanied by the Italian minister of foreign affairs, which will give particular significance to the visit.
